

Foreign Policy is the last issue that we will fix. We believe that we should stay out of wars, unless it threaten the safety of our country and our people. Conflicts with others, especially when it is not necessarily, could put us in danger on a war that is not needed. We feel that if we are put into any more conflicts our country won't be able to handle it and we won't have any confidence within the states. Having confidence is something that everyone needs when they want to establish something. If you don't have confidence you will be down on yourself and you might think that everything you think of is wrong.

One way we can improve foreign policies is by having fundraisers to increase the money we can give to the different states to use. They may run out of money and they won't have that much money to use to upgrade equipment or buy new equipment. Equipment is very important and if we don't have the money to give to the states to buy resources they may not be able to live a good life like everyone should. If they don't have the money they need and they want to achieve a goal they may not be able to achieve it.

We can also improve foreign policy by having open trade. We will use open trade to sell and trade different products between different states so everyone can have what they need in the states. This can help us so we don't have to worry about other states having everything they need to achieve their goals and some states not having everything they need. We feel that every state should have everything they need or want to achieve their goals.

We can also improve foreign policy by having each state align and not having military conflicts. Military conflicts are able to have the ability to make us not achieve our goals. If we have everyone align we can help stop military conflicts by everyone having an understanding on what they want to achieve and being able to help the states achieve the goals. This will help everyone have another country agree on the goals and be able to have another state help them achieve their goals. We feel that if every state has another state to help them achieve the goals then they can be able to achieve their goals.

One more way we can improve foreign policy is by stopping border crisis. Border crises is where people chant rude and harsh things to people trying to go from one state to another. This can easily make some states not want to accomplish some goals having people not approve and chant rude things about it. Some states may have a sensitive mind and they may want to have everyone approve of their goals before they make them. If they even have one person that doesn't approve on their goals then they may not want to achieve that goal and they may think they want to make new goals.
